As much as I don't like this, and I hate it, actually, which makes no difference at all. I just don't understand not allowing me to get my personal items and belongings back. I'm not asking with any intention of trying to provoke a reaction nor a response. I am asking, simply, because they belong to me. You know how I view this, I've expressed it many times. I miss my best friend. I miss you. I am miserable. I am depressed. You have been a major part of my life for a very long time. This has been more than difficult. It is difficult. You know how I view those things and it only adds to how difficult it is. I miss you. I don't understand about not letting me get my belongings back. I just don't.
